

Purest environmental technology

Guaranteed worldwide service. Always on the spot.

Technologies · Systems · Solutions

Leading in technology and service

Always there for you

Dürr is one of the world's leading suppliers in the field of environmental engineering. This is of course due to our state-of-the-art technology on the one hand, and our powerful service offer on the other. Just call us and our service team will take care of your system at any time and any place – we give you our guarantee on this.

Qualified engineers and technicians solve every problem with high competence and within the shortest time, no matter whether your air exhaust system was delivered by Dürr or another supplier.

We work for your success every day

Taking a closer look

With regular inspections, you can ensure that your system functions optimally and complies with all relevant environmental requirements. Annual, semi-annual or quarterly – our inspection reports provide you at regular intervals with important information concerning the planning and budgeting of the incurred costs, for example, or the necessity of repairs and spare parts replacement.

